ABOUT FUTURE POWER CAPITAL

Built to back people who are building something real

Future Power Capital is a London-based investment house. We commit our own capital to companies we believe in, and we back that capital with real advisory work — strategy, organisation, and the judgment that comes from having built things ourselves.

Who we are

We are based at The Tea Building, 56 Shoreditch High Street, London — in the heart of one of Europe's most active start-up and scale-up neighbourhoods, which is exactly where we want to be.

What we do

Our activity spans four broad areas:

- We invest as principal in businesses at every stage, from early ventures to established companies opening their capital.
- We advise portfolio companies and other teams on strategy and organisation.
- We hold real assets, including property, as part of a diversified balance sheet.
- We run a dedicated deep tech programme for scientific and engineering-led teams.

What ties them together is a single approach: we act as an investor first, not an intermediary. The capital we commit is our own, and every decision is made under our own governance — which means we can move with the judgment of an owner, not the caution of a committee acting for someone else.

A young house, built for the long run. Future Power Capital is a newly established house. We treat that as the starting point of a structure built to last: clear governance, a single accountable founder and director, and a set of activities we intend to grow deliberately rather than dilute.
